Mr. Lindsey has the Ford agency and is dealer in Gulf Products. He will continue both lines.

Extensive improvements and remodeling will be done on the building to add to the attractiveness of the business.

Good Increase Is Shown Among Freshmen; Attendance Total Will Be Good

West Texas State opened its 35th year Tuesday. Registration is proceeding in a very satisfactory manner, stated Dr. D. A. Shirley, Registrar, yesterday. No figures were available, but it was indicated that there would be a good increase in the registration of Freshmen and Sophomores for the fall session.

Juniors and Seniors are still registering, but it is indicated that there will be a slight reduction in the number in these classes owing to the large number who have accepted teaching positions for the year.

The faculty met at Cousins Hall for breakfast Monday morning where new members of the faculty were introduced and President J. A. Hill outlined the work for the coming year.

October Call of Men Is Higher

Demand Being Made for Induction of Men 18 to 26 to Build Armed Forces

The Randall County Selective Service Board is called upon to send 17 men to the induction station at Oklahoma City on Oct. 3. After light calls during the summer, this call is one of the largest since spring.

The call will be filled by single boys under 26 years of age. It will consist largely of farm boys who have been deferred in order to help out on the farms during harvest.

The board has a call to send three men for physical examination on Oct. 4. This indicates that the November call may be light due to the fact that all single boys who have been given their physical examinations will be included on the call for 17 men. A number of married men under 26 have passed their physical examinations and will be taken in November if the call for men is heavy.

The local board is meeting this afternoon to consider deferments of other farm boys who have not received their physical examinations. According to instructions from National Selective Service headquarters, it will be necessary for farmers to have an unusual case if such deferments are to be considered by local boards. The armed services are calling for men between 18 and 26 years, with indications that all men in this age bracket will be inducted before the end of the year.

Plans Made to Remodel Legion Hall To Care for Veterans World War II

Plans for improving and refurbishing the American Legion Hall for the benefit of Veterans of World War II are progressing, according to members of the committee.

Veterans of World War II have many advantages over the veterans of the first war. The first meeting of Palo Duro Post was held in the back room of a barber shop located on the east side of the square.

The next few meetings were held in the Canyon Supply Co. Then the Post being well organized rented the Fourth boarding house at 2104 Fourth Ave., paying $100 per month. The Legion dues were $3 per month, plus the annual Legion dues.

One year later the drive was started to build the present Hall. The building cost $14,500, which is all paid.

Veterans of World War II may make use of the Hall, and organize such entertainment as they see fit.

Veterans who have returned home after discharge are urged to join the American Legion. The dues are $5.00 per year and membership will entitle the men to all of the privileges of the Legion Hall.

Canyon citizens are asked to assist in improving the Legion Hall and getting it ready to receive the boys when they come home. Contributions to this fund may be given to Hud Prichard, Andy Walsh or John E. Hunter. The Post hopes to raise about $1,500 to put the Hall in first class condition.

Dues to the Legion for 1944-45 are now due; and veterans of both wars are asked to make their contribution of dues as early as possible.

Leroy Wooten Sends German Stripes Home

Pvt. Leroy Wooten, who graduated from Canyon High School in '42 and attended West Texas State College for two semesters, has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wooten, from "Somewhere in Germany." In the letter he enclosed a silver chevron stripe, a Nazi insignia featuring an eagle and swastika, and another sleeve insignia, torn from Germans he and his buddies had killed. "You may as well keep them," he wrote. "The Germans they belonged to won't be needing them any more."

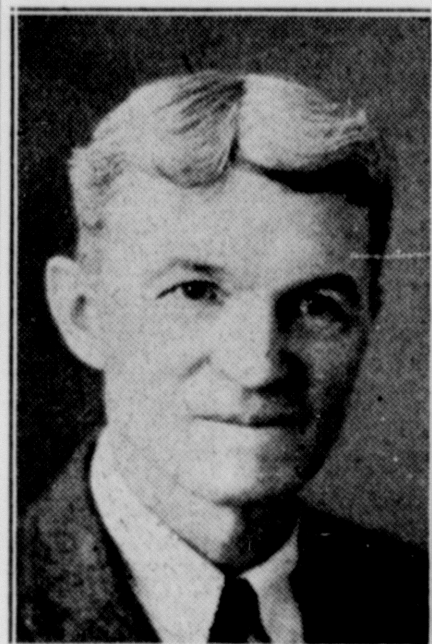

Private Wooten told his mother he had purchased her a "beautiful silver set while going through France. I left it in my foxhole while going out on a mission and when I returned I found the set had been smashed by enemy shell fire. Many of my buddies were killed, too," he added.

The Canyon soldier said it did not look as optimistic over there now as it did before he arrived in France. "I believe it will take longer to win this war than American papers lead you to believe," he wrote.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry Maxwell and children and Miss Evelyn Lemon of Pampa spent Monday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McAttee.

An Adequate Memorial

Various suggestions have been made for a memorial to the men who have gone from Randall county into the armed forces. Some counties have put up big display boards which bear the names of all those in service. These will blow down in a few months unless adequately serviced.

The Palo Duro Post of the American Legion has presented a practical plan for Randall county.

A legion hall was erected following World War I. Local citizens and the Red Cross contributed to the building. A small number of veterans have kept the Legion going for 25 years and have the hall in good repair. More than $500 was spent in repainting the building this summer.

Veterans of 1918 realize that when the new veterans come back they should have an adequate meeting place. Palo Duro Post has embarked on a program of repainting and refurbishing the Legion Hall in preparation for the return of these men and women. Legion members are backing their judgment by making contributions to a fund which will be used to refurbish the hall. These veterans know that the new veterans will take over American Legion affairs, and want to give them a good meeting place.

Citizens of Randall county are asked to assist in this project. No other type of memorial would be more useful or half as attractive to the men as they return as a good meeting place.

Legion members figure that it will cost about $1,500 to do this work. A grateful community could and should raise twice that amount, if necessary, in order to make the hall almost as good as new. Here is a good opportunity to show your interest in the boys before they return and to give them a meeting place that shall warm their hearts toward the people of the community.

The President has no time for business men. He considers that the government should be run by politicians, who are free spenders. When he sent Donald Nelson to China—to get rid of him—and elevated Charles Wilson to the head of WPB, Wilson resigned as soon as he saw the lay of the land. Both Nelson and Wilson had made wonderful contributions to the war and were trying to handle the office for the benefit of the nation. Wilson's resignation gave the President a chance to unburden himself on his cabinet as to business men. He demanded that the government should be run by politicians like himself, who had no business experience. The President refuses to admit that America is winning the war because of the wonderful organizations in business and industry which existed before the war and could be transferred almost overnight into war production. If these organizations had not existed and been ready when the war hit, we should have been whipped before the politicians could agree what to do next. When the President said he wanted 50,000 planes produced per year, wonder what politician in Washington could have built enough factories in 10 years to produce this vast number? The planes are being produced because the plans already existed—thanks to the wonderful business executives of the nation. These men had built the manufacturing plants, trained the men and knew exactly where all of the materials necessary for production could be located and converted into planes. Dumb business executives in America, do you agree?

Wonder what would have happened to London by this time if the military men had continued following the advice of Churchill? He insisted on the campaign in Italy, and said we could never land in France. The robot bombs would have eventually wiped out London because of the stupidity of a political boss who believes that he is a great military strategist. We hope that Roosevelt reminded Churchill of these two mistakes, and the third mistake in the failure of the Burma campaign, directed by a Churchill pet officer.

Silly campaign jokes will become more prominent as November approaches. In years past the President's family furnished most of the campaign material for jokes. Dewey's stature is coming in for many jibes. He cannot help it because he is a short man. Jokers say that he is so worried that he is wearing out the carpet under his bed as he paces up and down at night worrying about the campaign.

If the Republicans can pin the purported statement, "Check everything with Sidney," on the President, as they charge, Roosevelt should be defeated. The Republicans charge that the President sent this word to his political advisers, thus admitting that Sidney Hillman was the political boss of the Roosevelt New Deal Party.

The speeches of Roosevelt in 1932, 1936, and 1940 are staring him in the face in 1944 as he asks the people to re-elect him for a 4th term. Opponents to a 4th term—for Roosevelt, and all other politically minded men in the nation—are reviewing those speeches with a considerable amount of interest.

We have learned a lot of things about war from the experience of 1918-19. This time war stuff is going to be sold under a plan, rather than have all of it dumped on the market without rule or reason. This will make more orderly distribution, and should not upset the national economy.

The Yanks are in Germany. Hitler has lost his guess as to the security of the homeland. Hitler will soon lose his shirt as the Yanks plow through his holy land.

The Texas Political Muddle

If President Roosevelt should fail re-election in November through the loss of fifteen electoral votes, he will have no one to blame except Jimmie Allred and other ardent political henchmen.

The anti-Roosevelt group won the May convention in Texas and named electors who would be placed on the November ballots. Then the leaders of this group foolishly became bold and passed resolutions instructing the electors not to vote for the nominees of the party unless the demands made by this convention were followed at Chicago.

The Roosevelt crowd walked out, and named other electors. Being convinced that they were wrong, they have not filed this list of electors with the Secretary of State. They knew that they had no legal grounds on which to stand, but went to Supreme Court to test the validity of the regular May convention. The Court decided unanimously in favor of the regular Democrats.

The regular Democrats went to Chicago with a clear legal standing. There was nothing in the record to show that the Texas convention was not legal, and certainly there was nothing to show that the rump convention was legal in any of its actions. In spite of this, the pro-Roosevelt National Committee seated the rump delegates and took half of the votes away from the regular Democrats. Roosevelt would have won the nomination without the Texas vote. His followers decided to split the voting strength of the anti-Roosevelt delegation. It was right then that the major mistake was made. The anti-4th term group would have been satisfied with the defeat of CIO-sponsored Wallace. The Roosevelt controlled National Committee did not dare kick out the regularly named delegates, but did a worse thing by splitting their voting strength, and thereby alienating for the campaign those who might have been induced to vote for Roosevelt in November.

Two wrongs never make one right. The May convention was wrong in giving the electors instruction not to vote for Roosevelt in November unless all of the demands were met. They knew that the National Committee would never restore the two-thirds rule. Roosevelt considers that the South will wear the Democratic brass collar regardless of how he kicks the party around. In other words, the CIO controlled Democratic party of the north considers that the South exists only for the purpose of supporting its candidates in spite of the insults which may be heaped on the head of the South.

The September convention is always called the Governor's convention. The Governor has been allowed to dictate the platform and the policies of the State party in this convention, and to name the State Executive Committee which shall work with him during the election. It is assumed that the Governor shall need friends to be re-elected. In Texas this is not the case, since the Democrats control the political situation. But the September convention was not the Governor's convention, but turned out to be another national convention.

The 4th termers wailed that the voters were being defrauded and that they would have no chance to express their preference, in view of the fact that 15 of the electors stated after the Chicago convention that they would not support Roosevelt, but would vote for some other Democrat. Senator Byrd of Virginia was named as the likely Democrat to receive the 15 votes.

Governor Coke Stevenson attempted to pour oil on the troubled waters. He devised a plan so that the people would be given a chance to express their preference as between the regularly elected electors, and those sponsored by the rump convention, or those who favored the 4th term for the President.

Jimmie Allred hit the ceiling, and would have nothing to do with the plan. Allred and the CIO had been very busy and secured the election of delegates to the September convention who were favorable to the fourth term. After all delegations favorable to the President had been seated, whether named in regular or rump conventions, the Roosevelt crowd had a clear majority and proceeded to paint the town red.

Governor Stevenson was slapped when the convention refused to accept either his plan for harmony, or to re-elect the men and women whom the Governor favored on the State Executive committee. The 4th termers were out for blood, and they had a great time as they crammed through their program, including the defeat of the Governor's selection of State Chairman.

Now comes the Secretary of State into the picture. The electors named in the May convention were certified to him according to the law as soon as the convention ended. The September convention is attempting to substitute its own selection of electors. The Secretary of State looked up the law, and found nothing wrong with the proceedings of the May convention, which had been approved by the State Supreme Court. The pro-Roosevelt bunch have again gone to court in its effort to undo the work of the May convention, which has already withstood court attacks. The Secretary of State has just one interest—to see to it that the law is carried out.

The voters of Texas may be sitting in box seats of the national political arena. Just how serious the situation may be was revealed when the President came down off his political high-horse and called Governor Stevenson to Washington to talk over the situation. If the President were not fearful of the situation, he would never have condescended to call in a political critic to talk over the situation.

In the meanwhile, the average voter is confused and is wondering what the heck it is all about.

A farmer likes the suggestion of The News that farmers should organize and dictate the program of their organization before Sidney Hillman and the CIO steps in and gets control. The Farm Bureau is the farmer's organization. Unfortunately there have been too few farmers throughout the nation who have been sufficiently politically alarmed to take the necessary interest in their own organization. CIO has a group of smooth organizers. They have a bunch of ministers and college professors who can talk rings around the average farmer when it comes to organization. CIO is spending huge sums of money in the attempt to line up the farmers for just one reason—political. So far as the future welfare of the farmers are concerned, CIO does not give a whoop about this mere consideration. Hillman needs dues to extend his political activities, and he wants and needs votes to put his henchmen in office. The farmers should consider the situation very seriously before they join any organization which is sponsored by Sidney Hillman. He will not get far in the Panhandle, but may be more successful in other sections of the country.

The best remedy for feeling injured is to forget it.

You can start naming motor oils or anything else that you think's helpful. First though, I want to warn you not to let engine acids do their worst damage, when you can easily outsmart them by getting your engine's insides OIL-PLATED. Listen, right on a can of Conoco Nth motor oil you'll read about Nth oil's modern synthetic. It works something like magnetism. That's how it makes metal surfaces keep hold of OIL-PLATING. Then what if the engine explosions produce deadly corrosive acids, as every expert and his brother will tell you? Those acids still wouldn't gnaw direct at fine steel that's shielded by OIL-PLATING—a real acid-fighter! It fights for your car. While waiting for new ones—who knows how long?—don't delay switching to Conoco Nth oil.

When's the next time you'll be broke?

Hard to say, isn't it?

In fact, you haven't given it much thought. Things are going well now. The job pays fine, and it looks as if it will last forever.

But suppose it doesn't? Suppose, in the years after the war, you find things slowing up. What then?

Sure... maybe a good man can always get a job. But isn't it a great thing to have a nice soft cushion to fall back on if and when things don't go right?

And right now, if you're in the Payroll Plan and tucking money away regularly, week after week, you're fashioning the best kind of cushion you can possibly have, a big wad of money invested in War Bonds.

Here's why:

War Bonds are the safest investment in the world.

War Bonds give you $4 back ten years from now for every $3 you invest.

War Bonds are your stake in the good things of tomorrow—security, independence, travel, a decent old age.

And today, War Bonds give you a chance to put your money into the fight—the best reason of all!

Think that over. And when you get your check... chuck a good portion of it into Bonds... even though you're buying them already. Buy War Bonds—and hang onto them.

Must Secure 'A' Gasoline Books

New "A" gasoline ration books now being issued to motorists for use beginning September 22, have two new safety features.

"A" coupons will now have serial numbers useful in spotting stolen coupons. When issuing the new books, War Price and Rationing Boards record the serial numbers of the coupons along with the name of the person to whom issued.

Another safety feature is that new coupons are printed on a special kind of safety paper which responds to a secret test known only to Government identification experts. Counterfeit coupons on imitation paper may look the same to the untrained eye, but will show up the minute this secret test is applied.

Endorsement of the coupons is a safety feature, though it has been required all along. If not endorsed, coupons are invalid and may be revoked. As long as it is necessary to ration gasoline, it is important to guard against the misuse of counterfeiting of the currency that assures each citizen a fair share.

"A" book holders should not destroy mileage rationing records received with each A renewal. It will be required in future applications for gasoline.

Rotary Luncheon at College Cafeteria Tuesday at Noon

The Rotary Club met Tuesday at the College Cafeteria, eating with the Buffalo football squad. The club is still looking for a permanent eating place.

Judge E. L. Pitts of Amarillo was introduced by J. D. Barker as the speaker of the day. Judge Pitts was a former District Governor of the Lions Club.

During the past months and weeks Americans have been thinking of the privileges which are guaranteed to us by the Bill of Rights, stated the speaker. We are interested in maintaining the American Way of Life as guaranteed by the Bill of Rights. Our influence has been spreading into all parts of the world as our boys fight in this global war. They are learning about the other nations of the world, and likewise are teaching these peoples about the freedom of America.

Americans were termed an unselfish people by Judge Pitts. We unite and go forth to be of service in our communities.

As our men go into military life they have had to change their mode of life. Adequate training is necessary for the work ahead. When they come out from under this strict training and military supervision many of them will find it hard to take up their civilian lives. This is where every American must come to the assistance of the men.

The desire for home and for community life is the greater desire in the hearts of all soldiers as they seek to get out from under the strict regulations of the military.

Problems face the nation, and will confront the men as they again take up their work in the communities of the nation. The labor problem is probably the most pressing situation. No generation has ever faced more serious problems than those of us who have stayed at home and must assist these men as they seek to return to civilian lives.

Visitors were: Dave Thoyts and Marvin Paul of Borger; F. R. Barnes, H. M. Wheeler, Bob Clements, all of Amarillo; Herschel Coffee of Canyon.

When 65 Years Old Social Security Should Be Checked

In times like these all men are busy and many even forget when their next birthday rolls around. Every wage earner covered by the old-age and survivors insurance law should contact his nearest Social Security Board office as soon after his 65th birthday as possible.

The importance of the wage earner calling in person at the office or notifying the office by letter, in which case a Board representative will call on him, is stressed. The wage earner needs certain definite information concerning the filing of claims for benefits and the Social Security Board field office is the only place where authentic information on the subject can be secured.

It does not pay to take the word of your best friend regarding this matter since there are many technicalities that must be cleared up before a claim can be filed. The Amarillo, Texas Social Security Board field office is located at 324 new post office building.

Tomb of Chinese King, 1,100 Years Old, Discovered

'Old Dragon's Eyebrows,' a Thief Who Got Ahead By Joining Army.

CHENG TU, CHINA.—Just beyond the western gate of Chengtu, where the road passes an ancient burial ground and runs on toward the Tibetan foothills, archeologists are delving into their greatest find in China since they started deciphering the oracle bones of Honan.

The discovery is the tomb of a west China king, Wang Chien, who may have been called "Old Dragon's Eyebrows." He lived, fought, ruled and died a century before the Crusades.

Old Dragon's Eyebrows was born in 847 in Honan, which by coincidence also produced the oracle bones with which archeologists were working for a decade before the war with Japan.

The Chengtu tomb is, of course, much more recent than the oracle bones, whose earliest inscriptions go back to 1300 B. C.

The inscriptions on the oracle bones (so called because it is believed they were used in some primitive divination process) were about one-fourth translated and had thrown considerable light on the early culture of China when the war interrupted.

Tomb Under a Mound.

The Chengtu tomb is a stone crypt in a deep cavern, topped by a simple mound, so that from the outside it looks like countless other grave mounds that overlook the rice paddies just west of Chengtu.

One day in 1942 Professor Feng Han-chi, curator of the Szechwan Provincial museum and member of the faculty of the West China Union university, and T. K. Chen, curator of the university museum, dug their way into the mound and lowered themselves by ropes into the tomb.

They found most of the accoutrements of royal death except gold, precious stones, and a body.

Centuries ago the tomb had been robbed. The body either had been removed or dissolved by time. While much has been lost to archeology through the looting, a great deal remained. The national government named Dr. Wu Chin-ting, known for his work on the oracle bones, to supervise a careful excavation. Now Dr. Wu has made his first detailed report.

The major finds were a stone statue of the king, a number of objects dedicated to him, a royal seal, wall paintings and a jade belt inscribed with a date equivalent to October 27, 915.

The archeologists have been able to reconstruct much of the life and time of Old Dragon's Eyebrows from the evidence and collateral records.

The king was no spotless character, it appears from Dr. Wu's research. Contemporary accounts tell of his "domineering appearance" and "dragon eyebrows." In his younger days he went about killing oxen and donkeys and smuggling salt, and was known as "the thief."

But Wang Chien was kind to his father, burying the old man in a "lucky spot." Later, having escaped from prison, Wang met a monk who advised him to join the army.

Wang did so, rising to high rank. He was sent from Honan to Szechwan by an emperor of the then dying Tang dynasty to subdue some rebels. Wang not only captured a large part of the rebel army but set himself up as king of Szechwan.

Old Dragon's Eyebrows ruled from 907 to 918, the year of his death. His rule thus fell into that chaotic period between the end of the Tang dynasty and the beginning of the Sung dynasty.

AS THE bus drew near camp Chris began to worry; wonder and worry. What would actors with whom he had worked think if they knew that he, Stumpy Chris, was now earning coffee and cakes entertaining soldiers? He remembered the words of his agent:

"Are you sure that you want to do this, Chris? You're just hitting the big time now and off you go on a wild-goose chase. Making the army camps is all right for some stunts but you're different. You'll be taking a big cut in salary. Stick with me and I'll get you thirty weeks of the best time. What are you going to do when the USO closes this performance?"

"Don't worry, Gus," Chris answered, "I'll mail you the 10 per cent as usual; it won't be quite the money that you've been getting from me for the last couple of years, though."

"I don't want any commission on a deal like this," Gus replied heatedly. "If you are set on joining this camp show unit, I donate my share to patriotism."

Thus Chris had joined "Gals, Guys, Gags and Fun," latest production of USO Camp Shows, Inc. Sure, he knew that guys like him were getting their heads shot off overseas and he was still hoofing. So what? He hadn't asked for his draft deferment.

These were the things troubling Stumpy Chris as the bus pulled up to the entrance. Corporal Piney of the Special Services office was waiting at the post gate to meet and direct the troupe to the hospital. So it was to be a hospital this time? What a pleasant thought!

"Special Services sent me down here to see that none of you ham and egggers shows up lost, strayed or stolen," the corporal said.

"You talk as if you've been in show business yourself, Corporal," Chris addressed the newcomer. "Ever play a split week in Des Moines?"

"Yeah, I used to do a pretty fair magic turn," Corporal Piney replied. "You're Stumpy Chris, aren't you? We shared the bill in Des Moines a couple of years ago; remember? Some jump for me, huh; magician to soldier."

"Right, Corporal," Chris said. "Sure I'm Stumpy Chris. How does your uniform fit by now?"

"Pretty good. This army life doesn't do a fellow any harm. Guess that they won't get you for a while yet?"

"No," Chris answered disgustedly. "You know these draft boards; they stick a guy who wants in the army in 4-F and put someone who'd give an eyetooth to stay out of it in 1-A. Mine's 4-F."

"Oh, well, you're doing your part," the corporal said in an understanding tone. "We need USO shows here; can't get enough of them for the boys. Say, it looks like we're almost to the hospital."

Glancing from a window of the bus, Chris noticed that a large building with a red cross painted the length of the roof had come into view. "Is that the recreation hall?" he asked.

Corporal Piney nodded. "They got a stage to work on?"

Again the corporal nodded. Entering the building, Chris and his company were informed by a cheerful Red Cross Gray Lady that they would have fifteen minutes until curtain time. Upon further inquiry, Chris found that the building contained no dressing rooms. He wondered just what the army expected of a person anyway. What a life!

Fifteen minutes later, to the second, the audience began to file in. Dressed in bathrobes and pajamas they presented a rather bedraggled appearance. These fellows had seen plenty. What would they think of a 4-F civilian dancer?

Chris waited impatiently while the Carter twins finished amid a series of long-drawn-out whistles. It was tough to follow a sister team. Well, at least he could thank his lucky stars that he didn't follow the animal act.

"There's your cue, Chris," Stumpy Chris made his way to the center of the stage. They were stuck with him now. They'd have to like it.

"Say! That guy certainly has a lot on the ball!" a tall soldier, arm in a sling, exclaimed to Corporal Piney who was standing at his side. "Can you tie that? Here I am with a broken wing feeling sorry for myself, and a one-legged guy comes out and goes through a terrific dance routine. I should complain, ha!"

"A lot on the ball?" the corporal replied enthusiastically. "That's an understatement. He's tops. I ought to know; I worked with him before the army got me."

Later, reflecting upon the evening, Stumpy Chris' heart warmed. Yes, they were just like the youngsters he had known in France. This was another war but they hadn't changed. Maybe he did have only one good leg; he could still show the best of them a thing or two about clog dancing.

HEADQUARTERS, PANAMA CANAL DEPARTMENT.—Staff Sergt. Peter J. Malone, with the Sixth air force in the Caribbean, won a neat $5,000 in the Panamanian lottery with a $2.50 investment in tickets. Everyone in his outfit had varied and bright ideas about spending it but Malone put it all in war bonds.

Tina Was Hungry, Food Was So Good

But Too Much of It Caused Internal Trouble.

AN AMERICAN AIRBASE IN ITALY.—Times have been hard for Tina's family. Before the Americans came there never was enough food to go around. Always the little Italian girl got up from a meal half hungry.

And there was so little work. When she learned that one of the American air force officers was hiring native girls to serve at the headquarters mess, she dressed in her threadbare best and applied for a job.

The 40 lire, 40 cents a day, didn't mean so much. The real attraction was the fact that after they had finished serving, the girls themselves got to eat the same food dished out to the officers. Scores of Italian girls came to ask for work, but Tina, who was pretty in a dark-haired way, despite her thin form and thinner legs, smiled her best, rolled her lovely brown eyes and the mess officer hired her on the spot.

It was her smile more than her hunger that got her the job. Little Tina worked like a Trojan that first day.

The food was too wonderful, meat, potatoes, vegetables. She took a second plateful, and bread, lovely white bread with butter and jam. It had been weeks since she had tasted white bread and she had forgotten when she had last tasted butter.

Some of the other girls paused admiringly to watch Tina put away the grub. Her small stomach began to bulge like a toy balloon. Suddenly, as she raised another piece of bread and jam to her mouth, she collapsed and fell from her chair.

Screams rang through the room. The frightened Italian girls began calling on their favorite saints. Someone ran to the hotel desk and summoned an army doctor.

He briefly examined the writhing girl.

"It's nothing serious," he smiled. "Just indigestion. Her stomach wasn't used to that much food and she has eaten herself sick."

That was several days ago. Tina still eats enthusiastically but with more moderation.

British Farm Hand Hero Is Deaf to All Praise

LONDON.—Kenneth Andrews, hired man on a farm at Bacons-thorpe, Norfolk, was walking home with his baby son in his arms when he saw a British single seater plane obviously in difficulties and about to crash.

Handing the baby to his wife, he ran toward the plane as it hit the ground and burst into flame. He scrambled onto the nose of the machine.

Below him was the pilot, imprisoned in the blazing cockpit and making frantic signals. The pilot was also shouting instructions, but Andrews did not listen. He knew nothing about safety panels and such things.

Kicking the cockpit cover in with his heavy farm boots, he tore at the opening with his bare hands, and, reaching down, dragged the pilot bodily from his seat.

Andrews did not listen, either, when the pilot thanked him, and although the villagers think he is a hero they don't say so to him.

For Andrews is deaf and dumb.

Cupid in Need of Street List; Asks Chief's Help

ATLANTA.—Corp. Homer F. Golden, of Camp Claiborne, La., was in the unhappy fix of remembering the girl but forgetting where she lived. To Atlanta's chief of police, M. A. Hornsby, the soldier sent an appeal for a list of all the city's streets.

"I lost contact with my girl friend in Atlanta," he explained. "I'm sure I could find her if I could get a list of the streets, because I'd remember the name of the street if I could hear it."

At the bottom of the note was the postscript: "I sure will appreciate this favor, sir; she means a lot to me."

Slugging Over Washtub Prompts Priority Plan

KANSAS CITY.—Mrs. Lucille Zastrow, manager of a six-family apartment, told police that two women with washings to do were slugging it out for the right to use the tub in the basement.

By the time police arrived, one woman had knocked the other down, both were in tears—and neither wished to prosecute.

Mrs. Zastrow's new directive: A set schedule for use of the washing machine, not a catch-as-catch-can arrangement.

VICTORY FLEET DAY, SEPT. 27

Americans will do honor on Victory Fleet Day, Wednesday, September 27, to the ship operators who have helped to give the United States one of the highest and most interesting standards of living in the world. The food that brightens the Americans' dining tables illustrates the World-wide activities of American ship operators. Merchant ships bring in coffee from Central and South America and Arabia; cocoa from South America and West Africa; spices from Ceylon, India, Netherlands East Indies, Java, Burma and Latin America; bananas from the "Banana Republics," Cuba and Mexico; ginger from the Ivory Coast, India and Jamaica; pineapples from Hawaii, Mexico and Cuba.

GASOLINE SITUATION IS TIGHT

The average civilian motorist should expect no increase in his gasoline ration for the next several months, at least not before the end of the war with Germany, the Office of Price Administration says. Civilian stocks of gasoline built up last winter have been greatly reduced despite increased imports and record domestic production. Civilian grade gasoline stocks have decreased approximately two million barrels in 30 days.

TO HOLD DOWN FOOTBALL TRAVEL

To restrict football travel, football team managers have been requested by the Office of Defense Transportation to confine sale and distribution of tickets to residents of local areas of cities or towns in which games are to be played. The ODT also has asked football teams in traveling by train to use coach accommodations where ever possible and to make pullman reservations no earlier than the day before departure.

ONIONS GALORE, THIS YEAR

Your hamburger sandwich may have gone without its onion last year but now there's no excuse for such a deficiency, because the War Food Administration estimates that this year's onion crop will be 45 per cent above the 10-year average, 1933-42. For satisfactory home storage select good fully dried onions, keep in a well-ventilated, dry place in temperatures as near to freezing as possible without freezing. Onions store satisfactorily at temperatures from 32 to 55 degrees. Pantry or attic usually is superior to cellar. Never pack onions closely in a closed container. Spreading of a screen placed overhead in a garage or back porch is good if temperatures remain above freezing. Good quality onions will keep several weeks under ordinary room temperatures at this time of the year.

GO ON TO SCHOOL, GI'S ADVISE

The GI's overseas who are using their spare time to "crack their school books" in the hope of improving their possibilities when they return to civilian life, advise the boys and girls back home to keep on with their schooling. As Cpl. Kermit Gresson of Atwood, Kans., put it: "Any boy who's in high school now had better finish right away. Because if he doesn't finish before he's drafted, or before he takes a full-time job, chances are he never will. That goes for girls too."

HOME ACCIDENTS CUT MANPOWER

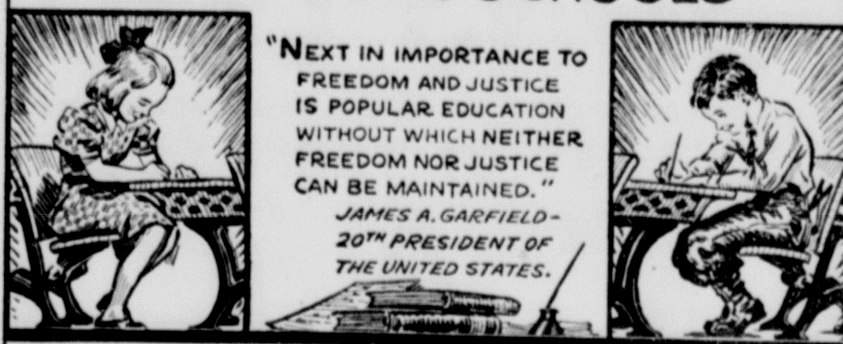

The Federal Security Administration is seeking public cooperation in a campaign to reduce accidents that reduce needed manpower for war work. Home accidents last year killed 6,000 workers and injured 900,000 seriously enough to cause loss of one or more days of work; much of it vital to the war effort. Home accidents in 1943 killed 32,500 Americans, including the 6,000 workers. Falls accounted for two-thirds of the fatal home accidents. One fourth occurred on stairways. Burns and poisonings were next to falls in order of severity. The yard and the kitchen each was the scene of one-fifth of the home accident deaths.

TOUGH ON BLACK MARKET "GAS"

The new "A" basic gasoline ration books to be issued soon outside the 17 East Coast States are going to be hard on the black market in two ways, the OPA says. They are printed on a new type of government safety paper almost impossible for counterfeiters to duplicate, and each book and all coupons it contains will carry a serial number. With the combination of the serial number and the motorist's endorsement of his own state and automobile license number it will be much easier for OPA to trace stolen coupons. The serial number enables a coupon to be traced from the plant that printed it to the person to whom it was issued. The endorsement makes it possible to trace an illegal coupon to the person who put it in circulation. Authorities recently arrested four alleged coun-

ARMY NEEDS NURSES IMMEDIATELY

The Army needs 4,000 Nurses immediately. Paul V. McNutt, Chairman of the War Manpower Commission, reported last week. Men wounded in battle must have adequate care no matter how quickly the war ends, he pointed out in deploring the fact that nurse recruitment had slowed up along with a growing belief that the European War is about over. The WMC Chairman urged inactive nurses, especially in outlying communities, to return to nursing duty.

HOG CEILING TO STAY UP

Ceiling prices on live hogs will not be reduced from present levels before June 30, 1945, OPA and WFA have announced. Present ceilings are $14.75 a hundred pounds, Chicago basis, for hogs weighing 240 pounds or less and $14 a hundred, Chicago basis, for hogs weighing more than 240 pounds. WFA also said the support price of $12.50 a hundred, Chicago basis, for "good to choice" butcher hogs weighing 200 to 240 pounds, effective October 1, will be continued until June 30, 1945.

ROUND-UP

The Department of Agriculture says: Butter supplies for civilians for the last half of this year are estimated to be 4 per cent smaller than in the same period last year and the smallest for this period is more than 50 years. . . . Civilian supplies of fresh fruit, frozen fruit and canned fruit juice are substantially larger this season than last, but supplies of canned and dried fruits are smaller. . . . A few weeks more of favorable weather will give this country the largest volume of crops it has ever produced.

The War Production Board says: Cities and towns are declaring "paper holidays" during which merchants use no bags or wrapping paper except for sanitary or protective purposes. . . . The Girl Scouts of America will join the drive for salvage tin, paper and rags on October 1. . . . Each Pennsylvania school pupil collected an average of 90 cans for tin can salvage during the six months ended May 31.

No rumors of Germany's surrender should be accepted unless confirmed by General Eisenhower, caution the War and Navy Departments and the Office of War Information. . . . Five per cent of the 27 million Christmas packages mailed to Army and Navy Personnel last year was lost because of faulty packing and addressing. . . . Beginning September 22 all gasoline filling stations may accept off-highway "R" coupons. . . . Production of corn pickers for this year's crop is larger than for any previous year, the War Food Administration says. . . . More than 4,000 automobiles a day are being scrapped, to leave an estimated 23,750,000 privately owned passenger cars in operation at the end of the year, according to a report issued by the Office of War Information.

A Little Light on our Family Tree

"Way back when choker collars were the latest gasp, electric light really cost money. For example, around 1910 that 100-watt bulb, which our friend holds so proudly, set the purchaser back $1.45. Today, the 100-watt bulb costs 15c. Furthermore, it gave only half as much light then as your present-day 100-watt lamp.

Most electrical dealers now have enough lamp bulbs in all common home sizes. With fall evenings here, lighting becomes doubly important in the home. Studying, sewing and other seeing tasks will require longer hours of eyework indoors. NOW is the time to fill those empty sockets with the right-size bulbs.

Light up for safety, too. Falls due to poorly lighted halls and stairways take an alarming toll each year. One accident may cost you more than many bulbs.

No matter how you look at it, good home lighting is cheap. So, be sure you have enough for every seeing need."
